DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGRAM/PROJECT AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Commissioners and City staff identified a need to update the City's strategic plan. The process involved Commissioner interviews to establish guideposts for working toward identified priorities.

Staff worked with the support of Linda Kleingartner from TAS. Over the course of three months, a cross-functional team of staff members created a new Strategy Map, which includes:

- Mission
- Vision
- Values
- Strategic Goals
- Implementation Strategies
- 2018 Plans (assigned at the Department Director level)

ANALYSIS/OPTIONS/ALTERNATIVES

The proposed City Strategy Map has been a collaborative effort, which started with Commissioner direction. Feedback from all City staff was obtained during the process, and Commissioners were updated at three separate meetings. The final meeting, included discussion of the bulk of the work, with Commissioner concurrence on moving forward to complete the 2018 plans.

Notes on Direction from Commissioner Interviews

Linda met with the 3 Commissioners individually as part of the project initiation (July 6 & 7), asked these questions:

- 1. As you think ahead about our community needs- what do you believe are the top 4-6 areas to focus on?
- 2. What do you believe is our City's greatest untapped potential?
- 3. In review of the Mission, Vision and Values (pg. 3 of attached document), is there anything missing or should not be there?
- 4. Aside from collaborative briefings following each strategy session, how would you like to provide input on the developing strategic plan?
- 5. What message/encouragement/thoughts you would like to share with the folks involved with the strategy work (Shelton leadership and employee volunteer team)?

DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGRAM/PROJECT AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In alignment with the budgeting priorities outlined by the City Commission, city staff has worked over the past ten months to identify the best approach for establishing a viable economic development program for the City of Shelton. Accordingly, city staff has identified TIP Strategies for the design of a comprehensive Economic Development Strategic Plan that maximizes the development potential in the City of Shelton.

TIP Strategies will conduct a specialized analysis of the City's relevant economic trends to reach an understanding of the current state of the area economy. The results of the analysis will enable 1) the identification of appropriate target industries and the development of effective marketing strategies to recruit them, 2) the design of workforce development strategies, including talent retention, development, and attraction strategies, and 3) the creation of a plan implementation matrix that will provide specific recommendations and tools needed to implement a long-term economic strategy.

EXHIBIT A - SCOPE OF WORK

1. Discovery

During this phase TIP will review available materials, visit with knowledgeable sources, and conduct a targeted analysis of relevant trends to reach an understanding of the current state of the area economy. This work serves as the basis for the identification of strategies in Phase 2.

1.1 Project Kickoff

The project kickoff will provide the opportunity to discuss objectives, define success factors, identify relevant studies and initiatives, and review the team's overall expectations for the engagement. The outcome will be a project management plan that will serve as the foundation for all the work to follow.

1.2 Economic Assessment

TIP will prepare a targeted analysis of demographic and economic factors that are of greatest concern to economic decision makers. This market-based analysis will focus on factors that define the area's overall competitiveness and highlight its unique economic strengths and weaknesses. The TIP standard assessment addresses the elements below, but specific aspects will be tailored to meet project objectives and to take advantage of available data resources.

Workforce & Education Economic Environment Competitive Analysis

1.3 Stakeholder Engagement

TIP employ a variety of methods to gathering input from stakeholders to gather and document the community's goals, objectives and vision for the future. For this work, we propose the following approach:

Leadership Roundtable. As part of the Discovery phase, TIP will facilitate a leadership roundtable. This session will provide an important framework for subsequent discussions.

Interactive Media. To expand participation in the process TIP can facilitate the use of social media and online surveys. These tools can be effective mechanisms for engaging stakeholders, gathering anecdotal information about assets and challenges, and increasing "buy-in" for the resulting recommendations among the broader community.

Roundtables & Interviews. Throughout the project TIP will provide a number of opportunities to solicit input through personal interviews and roundtables. These input sessions are conducted with major employers, elected officials, human resources specialists, real estate professionals, and other experts to gather information about future land use plans, regional economic trends, and other insights that will help shape our recommendations. Roundtables are tailored to the needs of the client and are typically organized around specific topics or strategies, such as transportation, affordable housing, quality of life, downtown, retail development, infrastructure, etc.

1.4 SWOT Analysis

The Discovery phase tasks form the basis for the development of an analysis of strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (commonly referred to as a SWOT analysis).

2. Opportunity

2.1 Guiding Principles

TIP will develop a clear set of guiding principles to provide a framework that both points to recommended actions and establishes priorities among available alternatives. Likewise, the range of opportunities should suggest a larger vision.

2.2 Cluster & Target Industry Analysis

TIP will employ a three-pronged approach—quantitative, qualitative, and strategic—to identify the best prospects for economic growth. The outcome of this task will match local assets with national and international trends to identify the industries that represent the highest potential for relocation or expansion.

Quantitative Analysis. Our analysts will use standard statistical techniques, such as location quotients and shift-share analysis, to identify industries where the region may have a comparative advantage relative to the nation

Qualitative Analysis. Findings from the prior tasks are refined by focus groups conducted with regional experts to gather information about strengths and barriers, regional economic trends, supply chains, current investment patterns, and other intelligence that would inform the selection of targets.

Strategic Considerations. The expansion potential of the target sectors is evaluated based on 1) a review of relevant cluster initiatives already in progress locally and at the state level, 2) an understanding of state, national and global trends, and 3) the experience of the consulting team in evaluating target markets.

2.3 Opportunities Analysis & Workshop

As part of this phase, TIP will facilitate an opportunities workshop with area leadership. The purpose of this workshop will be to engage in a focused discussion of potential strategies.

3. Implementation

Findings from prior phases will result in the preparation of a strategic plan and implementation matrix.

3.1 Strategies

Based on the findings of the assessment, stakeholder input, and the experience of our consulting team, we will assist in identifying effective strategies. We anticipate these strategies will address the following:

Business Development. TIP will focus on issues related to industry recruitment, retention, and expansion.

Entrepreneurship. TIP will evaluate entrepreneurship strategies as a means of promoting economic diversification and stimulating growth.

Workforce Development. TIP will focus on aligning workforce development initiatives with the needs of industry. These strategies will address issues related to the development of talent ("growing your own"), the retention of existing workers, and the recruitment of talent.

Quality of Place. TIP will work to understand what makes Shelton unique and leverage those advantages and translate them into economic strategies.

Best Practices. TIP will draw heavily on our experience to identify national best practices, identifying the most effective strategies for pursuing economic vitality.

3.2 Implementation Matrix

TIP will prepare an implementation matrix that addresses the following:

Actions. TIP will develop a list of actions to support the strategies. This step typically includes identifying responsible parties and potential partnership opportunities, and setting timelines.

Priority. TIP will set priorities for the implementation strategy.

Measurement. TIP will develop metrics by which success of the plan will be gauged. We can also advise staff on methodologies for collecting the needed data.

3.3 Final Report & Presentation

TIP will make revisions to the deliverables, as well as obtain final approval for the plan. This phase will also include a public presentation of the plan.

SUMMARY

TIP Strategies, Inc. (TIP) is submitting this proposal to act as the consulting team for the preparation of an economic development strategic plan for the City of Shelton, Washington. Our team members are experienced in 1) leading economic development planning projects across the United States and internationally; 2) identifying appropriate target industries and designing effective marketing strategies to recruit them; 3) crafting talent retention, development, and attraction strategies; and 4) assisting with the implementation of economic development plans for cities, counties, regions, and states.

TIP has helped us see how the world has changed and how we can best respond to the challenges of the new century.

Pete Johnson, Federal CoChairman, Delta
Regional Authority

Our Team

TIP's principals are ideally suited to assist the City of Shelton on this project.

- Jeff Marcell leads high-profile national consulting engagements and provides input from the practitioner's point of view. Jeff was with the Economic Development Council (EDC) of Seattle and King County for a decade, first as the organization's executive vice president and COO and then serving 5 years as the president and CEO. During his tenure with the EDC he rebuilt the organization's client-based economic development program and supervised the recruitment, retention, and expansion of 65 companies—including globally recognized firms like Boeing, Google, American Family Insurance and Booking.com—representing close to 7,000 primary jobs with an estimated economic impact to the local economy of more than 11,000 total jobs.
- Tom Stellman, president and co-founder of TIP, brings a wealth of experience working with communities and businesses. As developer of TIP's model of Talent, Innovation, and Place, he has helped clients identify sustainable strategies to promote workforce and economic health. Prior to founding TIP, Tom served as director of international business development and marketing for the State of Texas, where he assisted Texas companies looking to expand and locate in international markets. His experience in developing and managing the highly successful Invest in Texas Alliance provides a clear understanding of the issues communities face in recruitment.
- Jon Roberts is a nationally recognized leader in regional economic development. He has overseen projects in Texas and throughout the US, as well as in Europe and Asia. Jon served as director of business development for the states of Washington and Texas between 1990 and 1995. As managing director, he participates in the scoping of projects and provides technical and strategic input during each phase. He is a frequent speaker for the International Economic Development Council, having taught the organization's leadership and strategic planning courses in cities across the US, as well as in Russia and the US Virgin Islands.

Our principals are supported by a staff of analysts and consultants experienced in managing economic development projects similar in scope to the requested work. The TIP team also includes a network of associates and partners in a wide range of disciplines whose skills can be brought to bear on this project.

Our Advantage

The TIP team is well-qualified to serve as the contractor for this work.

We have a portfolio of successful consulting engagements in the State of Washington. TIP recently completed a series of engagements with the Washington Department of Commerce as part of the state's $4.3 million Defense Industry Adjustment grant. The work culminated in the development of the Washington State Military & Defense Playbook, which lays out a strategic framework for retaining and strengthening the military and defense sector in the state. In 2012, we prepared a Regional Economic Strategy for the Puget Sound Regional Council (PSRC). The document, which contained in-depth analyses of the region's industry and workforce, was developed with significant stakeholder engagement, including an Opportunities Workshop attended by more than 100 regional leaders. Other TIP engagements in the state include the preparation of economic development plans for the cities of Auburn, Redmond, and Kirkland, as well as Kittitas, Klickitat, and Lewis Counties. In addition, we conducted preliminary research on capacity issues surrounding computer science degree production in the state for the College Success Foundation in connection with the Washington Opportunity Scholarship initiative.

- We understand the importance of technology and innovation in creating a healthy economy. Our locations in Austin and, more recently, Seattle, provide our team with first-hand experience in crafting strategies that leverage technology assets. Our work for OneRedmond provided the organizational framework for the newly formed entity to market the community to specific sectors, as well as to pursue opportunities in innovation and entrepreneurship. In Round Rock, Texas, our team members were instrumental in helping the community assemble higher education, medical, and other assets in support of the growth associated with Dell. Guided by the team's planning efforts, Round Rock has been successful in attracting Scott & White Hospital, a campus of Austin Community College, a multi-institutional higher education center (anchored by Texas State University), a regional clinical campus of the Texas A&M Health Science Center's College of Medicine, and the St. David's School of Nursing.
- We have worked extensively with steering committees and working groups. Our projects are typically guided by leadership teams from multiple areas of interest, including private business, economic development, higher education, and workforce. During our work in the Louisville, KY area, we managed a steering committee that brought together leaders from 26 counties, covering portions of two states and six workforce investment areas, to prepare a workforce and economic strategy funded under the federal WIRED program (Workforce Innovation in Regional Economic Development). We also have direct experience facilitating task forces and public input sessions. As part of a visioning process for Tyler, Texas, we facilitated task force meetings with more than 100 members. The outcome of the visioning sessions was a list of priority strategies or projects that business and community leaders in Tyler felt would be the most feasible to accomplish during a five-year planning horizon.

We have extensive experience helping communities and regions diversify their industrial base by understanding their existing assets and challenges. For some, like Racine, Wisconsin, this involved transitioning away from a dependence on traditional industries. For others, our work helped position communities or regions to capture growth from expanding sectors, like healthcare (Temple, TX), or Both the document and the process that you guided us through will serve us well for years to come and provide much needed vitality to our local economy.

> Jim Rives, President, Maricopa Economic Development Alliance

specific opportunities, like a new automotive plant (New Braunfels, TX). Emerging industries were the focus of our work in other communities. For Beaumont, Texas, we helped them develop a strategy for capitalizing on advanced materials research being conducted at Lamar University. Leveraging nanotechnology and biosciences research was the cornerstone of our work for Tompkins County, New York, home to Cornell University.

- We view workforce development through an economic development lens. While our roots are in economic development, we have a deep understanding of workforce development and approach workforce strategy from the employer's perspective. Our workforce projects span the country. We recently assisted in updating the statewide talent strategy for the Oregon Talent Council, which focused on Oregon's strengths in bioscience, IT, advanced manufacturing, healthcare, and energy. Other relevant work includes facilitating a 10-county regional workforce strategy (focused on demand for and supply of middle skills) for the Greater Houston Partnership; creating a talent-driven industry cluster strategy for the Puget Sound Regional Council; crafting a workforce and economic strategy for the 26-county WIRED65 Region surrounding Louisville, Kentucky; and preparing a regional workforce strategy for Fargo, North Dakota, that included deep dives into three of the region's key economic drivers—healthcare, manufacturing, and information technology.
- We have helped communities and regions across the country identify well-suited target industries. The selection of target industries must consider a range of factors. Our occupation-driven approach recognizes the importance of connecting industry recruitment with the skills of the regional workforce and identifying opportunities for enhancing those skills. The presence of well-prepared industrial sites is another critical piece of the puzzle. Businesses do not locate just to a community; they locate to a specific site. Finally, the role of innovation has become an increasingly important aspect of industrial development, and our strategies often emphasize the recruitment of innovation-driven companies.
- We understand the corporate site selection process. For six years, TIP managed the Invest in Texas Alliance, a consortium of Texas economic development organizations and professional service firms interested in helping companies do business in Texas. As managers of the Alliance, TIP marketed directly to target industries in the US and abroad on behalf of the Alliance's member communities and organizations. This program generated over $3 billion in potential investment and resulted in 15 new locations in Texas. TIP has also implemented marketing and lead generation programs for a number of clients, including Midland, TX; Northern Ireland; and The Netherlands.

Our team offers a broad background. In addition to our consulting work, we have direct experience managing economic development programs. TIP principals have held management positions with the Texas Department of Economic Development and the states of Oregon and Washington. At the Economic Development Council of Seattle and King County, Jeff Marcell spent a decade leading the organization's efforts to recruit, retain and expand globally recognized companies like Boeing, Google, American Family Insurance, Booking.com, and many others in the Seattle region. Team members are frequently invited to speak at state and national conferences on a wide range of topics.

In short, our team has the analytical capacity, experience, and planning expertise to assist local leaders in examining Shelton's position in the global economy. We are excited about the prospect of working on this project and are available to begin work immediately upon agreement of terms.

Our team has an established process for conducting economic development strategy work. Our Theory Into Practice (TIP) planning model combines analytical tools with the latest thinking in economic development, workforce training, and community-based principles to create innovative and publicly supported strategies. In our years of leading consulting projects across the country, this three-phase approach—Discovery, Opportunity, and Implementation—has proven flexible enough to address the variety of challenges our clients face.

THEORY INTO PRACTICE PLANNING MODEL

Our Theory Into Practice (TIP) planning model combines analytical tools with our team's understanding of demographic, economic, and cultural trends.

1 Discovery

We begin by documenting our client's position from an economic development perspective. During this phase we review available materials, visit with knowledgeable sources, and conduct a targeted analysis of relevant trends to reach an understanding of the current state of the area economy. (Where are we now? How do we compare with our peers and competitors?) This work serves as the basis for the identification of strategies in Phase 2.

- 1.1 Project kickoff | A strong working relationship between our team and the client project team is essential. The project kickoff provides the opportunity to discuss objectives, define success factors, identify relevant studies and initiatives, and review the team's overall expectations for the engagement. The outcome will be a project management plan that will serve as the foundation for all the work to follow.
- 1.2 Economic assessment | Our analysts will prepare a targeted analysis of demographic and economic factors that are of greatest concern to economic decision makers. This market-based analysis focuses on factors that define the area's overall competitiveness and highlight its unique economic strengths and weaknesses. Our standard assessment addresses the elements outlined below, but specific aspects will be tailored to meet project objectives and to take advantage of available data resources.

Phase 1 Overview

Tasks

- ✓ Project kickoff
- ✓ Economic assessment
- ✓ Stakeholder engagement
- ✓ SWOT analysis

Interim Deliverables

- ✓ Economic assessment findings
- ✓ SWOT analysis findings
- Workforce & education. Our assessment begins with an analysis of demographic factors including overall growth in the labor force, participation and unemployment rates, educational attainment and higher education enrollment, commuting patterns, wage rates, and occupational statistics. Data are analyzed from the perspective of current employers and potential recruits, with comparisons to the US and other relevant geographies.

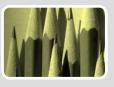

- Economic environment. To understand the foundation and overall structure of the economy, we will examine employment growth trends, industrial composition, and major employers in the area. For this task, the team will assess issues affecting the area's appeal to major employers, including geographic location; transportation network; telecommunications and other utility infrastructure (planned and existing); available sites; and incentives. In addition, we will use data from Esri, coupled with qualitative findings from Task 1.3 to understand the dynamics of the city's trade area.
- Competitive analysis. As part of the assessment, we will provide statistical comparisons between City of Shelton and an agreed upon number of similarly situated communities. The purpose of this step will be to understand the city's competitive position relative to its peers. TIP will work with the project steering committee in determining which communities would serve as the most appropriate benchmarks.
- 1.3 Stakeholder engagement | Gathering input from stakeholders is an integral part of the TIP planning process. We can employ a variety of methods—from organizing "town hall" style meetings to facilitating targeted workshops to conducting web-based surveys—to gather and document the community's goals, objectives and vision for the future. For this work, we propose the following approach:
 - Leadership roundtable. Our team has met with thousands of businesses and community leaders nationwide. We have found engaging this leadership group early in the process to be very beneficial. As part of the Discovery phase, TIP will facilitate a leadership roundtable. This session will provide an important framework for subsequent discussions.
 - Interactive media. To expand participation in the process, we can facilitate the use of social media and online surveys. These tools can be effective mechanisms for engaging stakeholders, gathering anecdotal information about assets and challenges, and increasing "buy-in" for the resulting recommendations among the broader community.
 - Roundtables & interviews. Throughout the project we provide a number of opportunities to solicit input through personal interviews and roundtables. These input sessions are conducted with major employers,

TARGETED ENGAGEMENT

We design a custom input process that engages the appropriate groups for a successful planning effort. Our goal is to design a community input strategy that: engages the broadest possible constituency; provides meaningful information to the planning process; raises awareness of economic issues; and builds support for the outcome.

EDUCATION & OUTREACH Raise awareness of the project, generate "buzz" INPUT and threats

elected officials, human resources specialists, real estate professionals, and other experts to gather information about future land use plans, regional economic trends, and other insights that will help shape our recommendations. Roundtables are tailored to the needs of the client and are typically organized around specific topics or strategies, such as transportation, affordable housing, quality of life, downtown, retail development, infrastructure, etc.

1.4 SWOT analysis | The Discovery phase tasks form the basis for the development of an analysis of strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (commonly referred to as a SWOT analysis). This analysis, in turn, drives the subsequent Opportunity phase of the planning process.

2 Opportunity

TIP defines economic development as the application of public resources to stimulate private investment. This definition recognizes that decisions on everything from transportation infrastructure to new workforce development initiatives must be informed by the response they will receive from the private sector. As a result, our approach is rooted in the needs of our clients on the one hand, and by an in-depth knowledge of investment choices on the other.

- 2.1 Guiding principles | At TIP, we believe a community's guiding vision is inextricably linked to its opportunities, with each informing the other. A clear set of guiding principles should provide a framework that both points to recommended actions and establishes priorities among available alternatives. Likewise, the range of opportunities should suggest a larger vision. Our approach places a premium on well-informed decisionmaking, sound planning practices, and long-term commitment to a vision for the future.
- 2.2 Cluster & target industry analysis | The TIP team will employ a three-pronged approach—quantitative, qualitative, and strategic—to identify the best prospects for growth. The outcome of this task will match local assets with national and international trends to identify the industries that represent the highest potential for relocation or expansion.
 - Quantitative analysis. Our analysts will use standard statistical techniques, such as location quotients and shift-share analysis, to identify industries where the region may have a comparative advantage relative to the nation. Potential industry targets are then considered along the following criteria:

Phase 2 Overview

Tasks

- ✓ Guiding principles
- Cluster & target industry analysis
- Opportunities analysis & workshop

Interim Deliverables

- Guiding principles for economic development
- Target industry recommendations
- Preliminary strategies for consideration
- Location: the area's advantages should correspond to critical facility location factors
- Growth: growth must be anticipated in the sector and be likely in the region
- → Size: must be large enough to merit a concentrated development effort

- → Image: should be desirable in terms of land use, job quality, economic cycles, and long-term development linkages
- → Infrastructure: requirements should be compatible with the area's capacity and resources
- → Multipliers: growth in the sector should have spill-over effects in other sectors
- Qualitative analysis. Findings from the prior tasks are refined by focus groups conducted with regional experts to gather information about strengths and barriers, regional economic trends, supply chains, current investment patterns, and other intelligence that would inform the selection of targets. This qualitative approach allows us to identify targets that may not be revealed in the data analysis and to pose questions for additional research.
- Strategic considerations. Finally, the expansion potential of the target sectors is evaluated based on 1) a review of relevant cluster initiatives already in progress locally and at the state level, 2) an understanding of state, national and global trends, and 3) the experience of the consulting team in evaluating target markets.
- 2.3 Opportunities analysis & workshop | As part of this phase, we will facilitate an opportunities workshop with area leadership. The purpose of this workshop will be to engage in a focused discussion of potential strategies. Throughout the process, our team will consider a broad range of traditional and non-traditional opportunities arising from demographic shifts, changing consumer behaviors, large-scale government policy, changing resource availability, as well as regional assets. The value TIP adds in such strategy sessions an understanding of how trends and assets translate into opportunities for our clients.

3 Implementation

Findings from prior phases will result in the preparation of a strategic plan and implementation matrix. The resulting document will provide specific recommendations and tools needed to implement a long-term economic strategy.

- 3.1 Strategies | Based on the findings of the assessment, stakeholder input, and the experience of our consulting team, we will assist in identifying effective strategies. We anticipate these strategies will address the following:
 - Business development. TIP will focus on areas where Shelton can differentiate itself from the competition. The results of this task will identify the most effective strategies for positioning the area with decision makers in each target sector. Issues related to industry recruitment, retention, and expansion, will be considered. These include human resource challenges, incentives, infrastructure, and image and branding.

Phase 3 Overview

Tasks

- ✓ Strategic plan
- √ Implementation matrix
- √ Final report & presentation

Deliverables

 ✓ Final report, including all interim deliverables from Phases 1, 2, and 3

■ Entrepreneurship. Across the nation, economic development practitioners and workforce professionals have embraced entrepreneurship as a means of promoting economic diversification and stimulating

- growth. The reason for this interest in entrepreneurs is two-fold: (1) an economic transition in the US that has created more market opportunities for entrepreneurs and (2) the recognition that entrepreneurs can be more deeply rooted in their communities, which increases both their economic and social impacts.
- Workforce development. TIP will focus on identifying workforce development issues that may affect the region's ability to support future growth sectors. The natural outcome of this strategy is a focus on aligning workforce development initiatives with the needs of industry and differentiating the region's workforce from the competition. These strategies will address issues related to the development of talent ("growing your own"), the retention of existing workers, and the recruitment of talent.
- Quality of place. The role of "place" is an essential part of our approach to economic vitality. Understanding what makes Shelton unique and leveraging those advantages will be emphasized throughout our work. This approach extends to understanding local goals and translating them into economic strategies.
- Best practices. Over the last 20 years, TIP has developed and helped implement successful strategies for communities and regions across the country. Our team draws heavily on this experience to identify what works and, just as important, what doesn't work when evaluating alternatives. Along with our direct client experience, we have relationships with a network of firms and organizations that enable us to continually refine our understanding of how to best address specific challenges faced by our clients. In addition, TIP utilizes external best practice resources, including the International Economic Development Council, the American Planning Association, and the Urban Land Institute, to assist our clients in identifying the most effective strategies for pursuing economic vitality.
- 3.2 Implementation matrix | Although it is often overlooked, a strong implementation strategy can be the key to bringing a plan to fruition. TIP will prepare an implementation matrix that addresses the following:
 - Actions. Using the findings from the Opportunity phase, we will develop a list of actions to support the strategies. This step typically includes identifying responsible parties and potential partnership opportunities, setting timelines, and identifying potential funding sources.
 - Priority. Identifying opportunities and the steps needed to make them reality is not enough. Setting priorities is perhaps the most important role that a solid implementation strategy should fulfill. Having clearly established priorities is essential for effective use of public resources.
 - Measurement. An important piece of any strategic plan is developing the metrics by which success of the plan will be gauged. We can also advise staff on methodologies for collecting the needed data.
- 3.3 Final report & presentation | Building public support for a plan is critical to its success. This phase will consist of making revisions to the deliverables, as well as obtaining final approval for the plan. This phase will also include a public "roll-out" of the plan. In our experience, this step has been critical to broader acceptance of the strategies.

PERSONNEL

At TIP, the work of our consulting team is conducted under the direct supervision of a senior member of the firm. They are actively involved in the scoping of the project and participate in every phase of the work.

TIP senior partner, Jeff Marcell, will act as principal-in-charge and will serve as the primary point of contact for this work. As such, he has the ultimate responsibility for the work products that are presented to the client. Under his direction, the TIP team will provide high-quality products and strive to quickly address any concerns to your satisfaction.

In addition to a principal, a project manager is assigned to each engagement. The project manager is responsible for day-to-day client communication, directing project research, and report writing. The lead project manager is typically supported by one or more project managers to assist in these duties. Each of our project managers has multiple years of experience managing consulting engagements.

PRIMARY STAFF:

We propose the following leadership team for this work, however, our collaborative approach means all professional staff are typically involved in some aspect of the engagement:

We believe our clients benefit from this approach which engages the full brainpower and expertise of our team in addressing their challenges.

Our goal for each project is to provide deliverables that meet—and exceed—our client's expectations. Our success in achieving this goal is demonstrated by the volume of repeat business we have achieved during our years in business.
