BUSINESS AGENDA

Public Hearing – Resolution No. 1147-0619 Fee Schedule – Presented by City Manager Jeff Niten

The City Council has been considering an update of the Master Fee Schedule since late 2018. A process was developed and agreed upon with City Council in January of 2019 to update the Master Fee Schedule and staff has undertaken this work.

The Master Fee Schedule is intended to recover costs associated with services the City provides. During the revision process, Staff took a look at comparable cities, aligning pricing within the average so that the City is not at a disadvantage.

Three highlights of the proposed draft include a maximum building permit fee of $50,000 regardless of a project's value, and making use of a building value chart from two years prior to current year which will result in a lower total permit fee for new construction in the City of Shelton. Lastly, Staff added provisions such as the early foundation permit that will allow commercial and industrial buildings to get started with construction activity prior to full permit issuance resulting in a faster permit process for contractors and City staff.

Per the request of the Council, Staff pointed out some of the fees removed from the Master Fee Schedule. Council and Staff discussed the Master Fee Schedule at length and how these fees will impact the City and those requesting a permit. Erin Hall and Lisa Perry commented on the Master Fee Schedule.

There was a first reading of Resolution No. 1147-0619. Council concurred to place this item on the July 16, 2018 Action Agenda.

The Mayor closed the public hearing and recessed back into the regular meeting.

Resolution No. 1148-0619 Payment of Claims – Presented by Accounting Manager Teri Schnitzer

To expedite the payment of claims, RCW 42.24.180 allows checks to be issued prior to approval by Council, if the Council approved the practice via Resolution. Approval of this process change would result in payment efficiencies for the finance department, timely payments to vendors who have provided goods and services to the City, and a reduction in late payment charges.

Staff and Council discussed the payment approval process. Council will still review and approve vouchers even though they have been paid. Furthermore, Council will continue to approve larger vouchers prior to payment. There were no public comments.

There was a first reading of Resolution 1148-0619. Council concurred to place this item on the July 16, 2018 Action Agenda.

Contract for Library Painting & Siding Repair- Presented by Community Development Director Mark Ziegler

With the support of our 35th District Representatives, the City received a Department of Commerce Local Community Project grant for repairs on the William G. Reed Library in the amount of $279,900, (total amount was $288,900 with the Department of Commerce's fees). Two initial bids were opened on May 2nd for repairs that included a new roof, painting and deck upgrades.

The bids did not come back favorable to the City or the funding we had available. All of the alternate bids were rejected. The main bid for the installation of the metal roof and repairs was accepted.

The painting portion of the project was sent to bid again to seek more favorable bids. The City received two bids for the painting project. One bid was deemed responsive from J. Linder Painting, LLC in the amount of $64,464.00

Council expressed the importance of budget planning for long term maintenance. This project has highlighted how deferred maintenance cost more in the long run.

Staff is requesting the Council to waive the three touch rule in order to complete the contract documents and begin the project as soon as possible. There were no public comments.

A motion was made to award the William G. Reed Library Painting Contract to J. Linder Painting, LLC by authorizing each member of the Council to sign the Project Award Form, and further authorizing the Mayor to sign the William G. Reed Library Contract once it has been sighed by J. Linder Painting, LLC. Passed.

OVERVIEW

The City of Shelton is at a turning point in their history with the opportunity to capitalize on a full staff, a new city manager, a supportive council, and a community that is increasingly interested in city activities. The city has seen recent staff turnover at the director level, while some directors have been with the city for over 20 years. This alone provides a unique opportunity to bring forth the best practices from the past and integrate them with today's efforts to improve communications both internally and externally. However, given the nature of a small community and small city staff, capacity challenges can hinder even the most effective communications efforts. There is no silver bullet in communications. However, there are several tools and tactics that can streamline communications and build internal team cohesion, allowing the city to continue to be the best and most trusted source of city information.

Maul Foster & Alongi, Inc. (MFA) was hired in early 2019 to review and analyze the City of Shelton's communications program and provide recommendations. MFA proposed the following tactics to effectively review and analyze the current communications program and sentiment regarding efforts. MFA also recommended the following timeline, which was updated as elements of the project were completed.

Project Management. Monthly project team check ins with the City of Shelton and MFA staff.

City Council Briefings. The Project Management task included three City Council update presentations at the beginning (April 2019), middle (July 2019), and end (September 2019) of the project. These presentations were key to informing the Council and public about project progress. Briefing PowerPoints are included in Appendix E.

Staff Workshop. Given efficiency of project management and oversight, the Communications Strategy project team decided to use remaining budget in the Project Management task to hold a staff workshop with City of Shelton department directors on August 21, 2019. The purpose of this workshop was to discuss how the leadership team will work with the Communications Officer to share pertinent information so the Communications Officer can effectively and proactively communicate on behalf of the City. The deliverable for this effort was a set of guidelines to enable staff to follow for a mutually-beneficial outcome. The meeting agenda, guidelines, and updated communications information sheet are included in Appendix F.

Interviews. MFA interviewed the City Councilmembers and City Directors to gain insight on sentiment regarding current communications efforts. The interview summary, including questions and list of interviewees, is included in Appendix A.

Community Engagement Survey. The Interviews task included a community outreach component in which MFA worked with the City to create an online survey to gather feedback from the community. This survey was fielded in July 2019. The survey requested specific feedback about how community members receive information about the city, prefer to receive information, and inquired about specific items the city is assessing including creating a new Facebook page for the City of Shelton Police Department. The survey summary is included in Appendix B, and the final survey results are compiled in Appendix C.

Evaluation and Assessment. During the evaluation and assessment phase, MFA reviewed and analyzed existing communications products including flyers, newsletters, and relevant news coverage. Then, MFA compared efforts with established best practices and regulatory requirements to identify opportunities for compliance and improvements. All of the findings from the evaluation and assessment are included in the report that follows. A report of the findings sorted by each communications tool is included in Appendix D.

Final Report. Following the completion of the evaluation and assessment, MFA compiled all findings and recommendations into this final report.

Templates. As part of the final report submittal, we compiled a set of templates to help guide the Communications Officer in addressing the recommendations outlined in this report. These templates are included in Appendix G.

MFA presented the final report and findings to the Shelton City Council on September 3, 2019.

2 findings and recommendations

Much of the feedback received during this process was overwhelmingly positive and suggested that major progress has been made with regard to the City of Shelton's communications – internal and external. It is critical to note this positive feedback because much of the recommendations below are framed as improvements, but the City has made great strides in the last several years to implement a communications program of which the City did not previously have. The primary goal with these recommendations is to create protocols that streamline efforts so staff can more effectively and efficiently do their jobs. Therefore, possibly having freed-up capacity to address some of the larger external communications feedback including dedicating more time to proactively posting and communicating through Facebook.

66% of survey respondents indicated that they are sufficiently informed about city news

The following recommendations are organized by type of recommendation including procedures and templates, internal communications, compliance, and best practices

Each recommendation came from one of the project elements. Recommendations have been compiled and arranged for ease of implementation. Project element summaries are included in the Appendix of this report.

2.1 Procedures and Templates

The following procedures and templates are recommended to be developed and utilized as part of the overall communications program.

Short-Term

Items to prioritize implementation within one year, if possible.

- Update the Communications and Government Relations Officer position description to accurately reflect the job duties of the position. Identify any tasks that no longer fall under that position and reassign to new owners.
- Create a standard operating procedure (SOP) for city departments and the council to work with communications.
  - Based on feedback from staff, creating a communications SOP will require a collaborative and iterative process with the city department directors and the councilmembers.
  - Recommend a series of facilitated meetings to confirm the role of the Communications and Government Relations Officer and to identify the best ways to coordinate and share information among staff.
- Develop and implement a general communications plan with the following elements:

- Audiences
- Tools and tactics
  - Facebook
  - OpenGov.com to share project updates and city department snapshots that update the public regularly
  - Ongoing community engagement activities such as briefings at local nonprofit clubs and organizations. Clarify who develops and updates the materials and who presents.
- Challenges and opportunities
- Develop a social media protocol
  - Should be manageable for the city, also consider all the sources of communication and right size social media
  - Include a statement about the city's intent (or lack thereof) to interact on platforms

70% of survey respondents get their news from Facebook first

57% of survey respondents want the city to increase resources towards Facebook

- Develop a crisis communications protocol and plan.
  - Hold a crisis communications workshop to develop the plan, with scenarios, actions, and leads.
  - Develop a crisis communications protocol (and phone tree).
  - Further explore opt-in texting options to quickly communicate with the public (Nixle, GovDelivery).
- Create a content calendar to organize and plan communications efforts.
  - Include project milestones and necessary communications.
  - Include positive stories in the content calendar: awards, completed projects, positive community feedback, events the city is funding/supporting, councilmember activities (AWC conference and value of that conference), etc.
  - Map out content at the start of every year and review/revise monthly if not more frequently.
- Create updated communications tools templates that focus on the story behind the update. Use the tool to explain why the city is doing this, how it furthers the city's priorities, and why it matters to the public; include quotes from staff, volunteers, and leadership.
  - Facebook post
  - o News release
  - Use OpenGov.com to share regular updates

Leverage the team.

 Aaron BeMiller organized and led a community roadshow to explain financial issues at the City of Kent.

- O Darrin Moody's team supports communications by creating drafts and providing oncamera interviews. If this process is helpful, how can we replicate this process in other departments?
- Determine desired use and existing skills for photography, graphic design, drone and video, website design to enhance communications.
  - If those skills are not in-house, consider collaborating with a local university to provide internships for these skills.
- Create a separate Facebook page for the City of Shelton Police Department news and information.
  - Partner with the City of Shelton Police Department staff to help create a transition plan that includes staffing and protocols for posting to the Facebook page.

75% of survey respondents indicated that a separate Police Facebook page should be created

Long-Term

Items that will take additional planning, budgeting, and coordination but should be implemented in a 2-5 year timeframe, if possible.

- Update the City of Shelton Strategic Plan and get staff and the council on board with the same goals and strategies looking to the future. This is a great opportunity for community involvement in the strategic planning process.
- Complete the planned re-branding and include voice and message in the re-brand.
- Update the website to enhance the customer focused.
  - o Improvements
    - Maintain city website home page with positive stories and events

75% of survey respondents use the City of Shelton website regularly

- Update the website on a regular basis (weekly, monthly) and identify staff support internally to manage this ongoing effort (E.g. monthly rotating role)
- Make the news section more prominent on the webpage
- Include online sign-up for electronic newsletter distribution
- Post council meeting materials to website, videos/livestreams included
- Post project updates regularly (i.e. traffic revisions, construction zones)
- O Use existing tools (social media, newsletter) to promote the updated website functionality (paying bills online, online reservation system).
- Create new or updated tools to address the purpose and benefit of different city efforts and department.
  - Project and City Factsheets—For each major project and city department, create a factsheet to tell the story of the purpose and value of the project or what the department does for the community, project timeline; focus on what the public should know (E.g., contact information); update annually or as needed. Provide factsheets to the council so they can answer questions.

- This is something the liaison can mockup while the Communications Officer finalizes and shares externally.
- Suggest building a public education campaign using these new tools.

2.2 Internal Communications

Part of the original assessment was to address internal communications between the Communications Officer and the other department officers and directors. It was clear that the City staff are interested in working well together but agreed that they need a process of which to guide their regular coordination. The following recommendations should be explored to help the team communicate more effectively.

- The Communications Officer should attend all leadership team meetings, Council briefings, and any meeting held by the City Manager that involves a communications element. The default should be to include the Communications Officer in all meetings until the Communications Officer determines their attendance is no longer needed.
- Host a staff workshop to jointly agree on a process to work and share necessary communications information with the Communications Officer.

2.3 Compliance Adjustments

At the start of the Communications Strategy project, the City of Shelton Communications Officer provided several examples of previous public communications. These documents were reviewed during the evaluation and assessment phase of the project. The purpose of evaluating these documents is to ensure that all City documents are compliant with the Public Records Act (PRA), Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), Washington State Records Retention, and Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

It is worth noting that should the City not be able to provide a reasonable accommodation, then the City must be able to demonstrate the undue burden such that they cannot reasonably accommodate all.

High level recommendations are compiled below and additional details including sample text to include in materials are included in Appendix D.

- In all materials, provide captions and alternative text with multimedia (photos, videos, etc.) on the Web.
- In print materials, add ADA language at bottom of page 1.
- In videos, include a running caption for all audio.
- In videos, include ADA language on a closing slide.

For events, provide reasonable accommodations and request a deadline ahead of the event to ensure staff can secure accommodation in advance. Reasonable accommodations could include services and auxiliary aids such as qualified interpreters; transcription services; assistive listening devices for persons who are deaf or hard of hearing; or additional lighting for persons with visual impairments.

2.4 Best Practices – News Releases

Given the frequency that the City uses news releases, the below information is a collection of news release best practices. This information was compiled from multiple interviews with public information officers and communication managers from jurisdictions of a similar size.

- Focus on no more than a couple of key messages so your main intent doesn't get lost.
- Rather than explaining all the steps, details, etc., circle everything around helping readers understand why something the City is doing matters to them, to the community, to the issue at hand, etc.
- Write in and adhere to AP Style, so reporters can cut/paste your release. In this age of shrinking newsroom staff, this not only ensures your message comes across just how you wrote it, it helps reporters and editors cover your stuff by not requiring them to do a bunch of work to rewrite, interview people, etc.
- Plain talk don't dumb it down, but do use language that's closer to how we normally speak (Ex: Basin 3 Sewer Rehab release is much too technical and wordy)
- Don't bury quotes they should be near the top, but do give your lede some breathing room before the quote comes in and steals the show
- Read quotes aloud to yourself...do they sound like something a real human would say? If they sound too technical/robotic, rewrite and re-read until they sound like the person you're quoting (Ex: Andy's quote in "City of Shelton to Partner with The Retail Coach" it's buried and sounds staged, because it's highly technical and lengthy, and uses words that don't mean much to average, non-economic-development types)
- Rather than including tons of technical info/details, stick to the most important message(s) and embed more links to help people find resources and increase website usage
- Larger font size
- Consistent font/style throughout document (Ex: "Special Election for City Council" is inconsistent)
- Keep releases to one page, if possible. Any more than one and a half pages probably means you are getting too detailed and/or aren't focused on the right message(s).
- Don't embed graphics/images (except City branding and partner logos if sending a joint news release). Instead, link to critical images like maps, drawings, etc. from the text.
   Photos/graphics in the Web version is okay, but make sure they're viewable (link them to a pop-up or another page where they're not tiny/unreadable).

• Create a descriptive boilerplate – what's the City of Shelton all about and why should (non-familiar) readers/reporters care?

3 NEXT STEPS

Following the submission of this report, MFA will work with the Communications Officer to develop templates and to help assist with the near-term recommendations.

APPENDIX A INTERVIEW REPORT

Interview Findings Report

Overview

On April 24, 2019, Kate Elliott conducted 12 in-person interviews with City of Shelton directors and councilmembers to discuss opportunities and challenges regarding the city's communications.

The City of Shelton is at a turning point in their history with the opportunity to capitalize on a full staff, a new city manager, a supportive council, and a community that is increasingly interested in city activities. The city has seen recent staff turnover at the director level, while some directors have been with the city for over 20 years. This alone provides a unique opportunity to bring forth the best practices from the past and integrate them with today's efforts to improve communications both internally and externally. These interviews made clear that many believe the city's communications are robust and effective. However, given the nature of a small community and small city staff, capacity challenges can hinder even the most effective communications efforts. There is no silver bullet in communications. But there are several tools and tactics that can streamline communications and build internal team cohesion, allowing the city to continue to be the best and most trusted source of city information.

The following report outlines key findings and recommendations from the interviews for the City's further evaluation and assessment for the purposes of this Communication Strategy project. The recommendations are meant to be implementable for the city; therefore, some of the recommendations provided during the interviews were not included for the purposes of this report.

The list of interviewees and questions are included in the appendix located at the end of this document.

Key Findings and Recommendations for Further Evaluation

Several key themes and recommendations emerged from the interviews and are outlined below for further evaluation.

Overall

- Communications plays a critical role in the success of the city.
- Interests are divided between investing more in improving communications and satisfaction with current communication.
- There is a strong interest in having a Public Information Officer for the city. Whether this would be a role added to an existing position or a new position was not confirmed.
- There is a strong interest in setting up procedures and protocols to work with the Communications Officer.
- There is a strong interest in ensuring that technology and systems are effectively and efficiently utilized, even if that requires an investment in technology.

Internal Communications

- Clarify the role of the Communications and Government Relations Officer. What should this role do for the city?
  - Clarify opportunities for liaisons and support staff—E.g. councilmembers can lead partnerships (Pear Orchard Park) and nonprofit coordination.
  - Create a standard operating procedure for city departments and the council to work with communications.

Interview Findings Report

- Identify a liaison within each department to work directly with the Communications and Government Relations Officer (Communications Officer). This person will be responsible for providing regular updates and discussing immediate and upcoming communications needs with the Communications Officer.
  - The liaison will maintain a communications content calendar with the Communications Officer to help plan ahead for upcoming communications needs and identify the tool to use (social media, traditional media, press release, website, public outreach, etc.).
  - The liaison will be trained on the social media protocol and be able to provide staffing coverage if the Communications Officer is unavailable.
  - Alternatively, have the Communications Officer attend all department meetings to build out a high-level communications content calendar for coordinating efforts.
  - Note: for major communications milestones and efforts, the Communications Officer should have to some extent the authority to direct when milestones (E.g. events, construction start dates or impacts) will occur to ensure no overlap with other milestones.
- Develop and implement a general communications plan with the following elements:
  - Audiences
  - Tools and tactics
    - Project and City Snapshots
    - Ongoing community engagement activities such as briefings at local nonprofit clubs and organizations. Clarify who develops and updates the materials and who presents.
  - Challenges and opportunities
  - Social media protocol
    - Should be manageable for the city, also consider all the sources of communication and right size social media
    - Include a statement about the city's intent (or lack thereof) of interaction on platforms
  - o Crisis communications
    - Hold a crisis communications workshop and develop the plan, with scenarios, actions, and leads, following the workshop.
- Given the recent new hires and city leadership, the city has an opportunity to update the City of Shelton Strategic Plan and get staff and the council on board with the same goals and strategies looking to the future. This is a great opportunity for community involvement in the strategic planning process, so this supports both internal and external communications.

External Communications

- Focus on the story behind the general update or notice. Use the tool (E.g. Facebook, press release, etc.) to explain why the city is doing this, how it furthers the city's priorities, and why it matters to the public; include quotes from staff, volunteers, and leadership.
- Create a communications plan for every event, notification, communication. Can be a short, quick exercise and should focus on how best to tell the story effectively and efficiently to the right people at the right time. Often there is not enough time for planning, but that's where the city and council see that the greatest benefit of this position is the ability to provide structure and thought into communications early on, before they go out to the public.

- Update the website to make it more customer focused.
  - Use existing tools (social media, newsletter) to emphasize the new website functionality (paying bills online, online reservation system).
  - o Improvements.
    - Maintain city website home page with positive stories and events
    - Update the website on a regular basis (weekly, monthly) and identify staff support internally to manage this ongoing effort (E.g. monthly rotating role)
    - Make the news section more prominent on the webpage
    - Include online sign-up for electronic newsletter distribution
    - Post council meeting materials to website
- Create new or updated tools to address the purpose and value of different city efforts and department.
  - Project and City Factsheets—For each major project and city department, create a factsheet to tell the story of the purpose and value of the project or what the department does for the community, project timeline; focus on what the public should know (E.g., contact information); update annually or as needed. Provide factsheets to the council so they can answer questions.
    - This is something the liaison can mockup while the Communications Officer finalizes and shares externally.
    - Suggest building a public education campaign using these new tools.
  - Determine desired use and existing skills for photography, graphic design, drone and video to enhance communications.
    - If those skills are not in-house, consider collaborating with a local university to provide internships for these skills.
- Create a content calendar to organize and plan communications efforts.
  - o Include project milestones and necessary communications.
  - Include positive stories in the content calendar: awards, completed projects, positive community feedback, events the city is funding/supporting, councilmember activities (AWC conference and value of that conference), etc.
  - Map out content at the start of every year and review/revise monthly if not more frequently.
- Complete the planned city re-branding and include voice and message in the re-brand.
- Leverage the team.
  - Aaron BeMiller organized and led a community roadshow to explain financial issues at the City of Kent.
  - Darrin Moody's team supports communications by creating drafts and providing on-camera interviews. If this process is helpful, how can we replicate this process in other departments?

Next Steps

The next step outlined in the Communications Strategy project is to evaluate and assess the City of Shelton's communications practices in light of the opportunities and challenges identified during the interviews. For the assessment, we will also look at other similar jurisdictions and their practices.

City of Shelton Communications Strategy Interview Findings Report

The deliverable for this effort is a modified version of this report that will include the findings from the evaluation and assessment, as well as a set of templates to help establish new policies, practices, and procedures to help streamline internal and external communications.

Recommendations are provided for each document reviewed.

It is worth noting that should the City not be able to provide a reasonable accommodation, then the City must be able to demonstrate the undue burden such that they cannot reasonably accommodate all.

Social Media Plan Template

Risks – What risks are associated with social media and how do we plan to address them?

Overall, the current social media conversation around the City is often either neutral or negative.

Educating the public on why City of Shelton is building the project and the benefits will be key to overcoming negative sentiment. Positive social media engagement can turn a critic into an advocate.

- 1. Social media users, influencers, mainstream media and reporters, can be influenced by negative or inaccurate social media posts
  - Educating the public about why the project is necessary can help reduce confusion and negative feedback
  - Strategic monitoring programs makes it easy to identify and correct inaccurate information
- 2. Social media and online communications happen rapidly: Responses or feedback need to be provided as soon as possible
  - Provide dedicated staff to monitor and engage in the conversation.
     Can serve as a timely online customer service tool
  - Ensure website is up-to-date allows City of Shelton to easily direct users to information
- When launching a program, the sheer volume of conversation, may make it impossible to respond to everyone. Judging when to respond requires careful consideration and resources.
  - Knowing what and who to pay attention to is easier when you have a monitoring program with experienced staff
  - Identify key issues and online influencers and delegate resources appropriately
- 4. The project is complex and may be particularly challenging to explain in the fast paced and quick exchange of social media
  - Prepare messages and information in advance so they are logically ordered and in smaller and easily understandable chunks
  - Drive social media users to City of Shelton website using a short link for further information, instead of having to provide lengthy detail in a social media post

DATELINE – The dateline should be the city where the event takes place, not where you sit. Olympia can be used for statewide releases. Please follow the same fonts, spacing and justification that are laid out in this release.

Try to keep your release to one page and tout the benefit of your project in your opening paragraph whenever possible.

News Release Template

Feel free to relegate first references to your full Organization name to the second paragraph. Doing so can free up space in your opening paragraph for clever turns of phrase, news hooks and key messages. And, use any Organization name abbreviation on second reference. Mention the name of the contractor in project-related releases, and explain why and how traffic is affected without saying "we" and "you."

"We don't have to have a quote in every news release – it's not always necessary," said Commissioner Quotable Quotes. "But if you want one, please write it in a way that sounds like something someone would say to their neighbor. Not something you'd read in a manual." Use hyperlinks in the body of the release to make it work faster and harder. Modern media sites are hungry for pictures and videos.

Get your release reviewed and approved.

Include a bulleted list of the hyperlinks at the end of the release. Set it apart with two spaces from the previous paragraph and reduce the font size to 11.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGRAM/PROJECT AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

There are several areas throughout our city with pavement that is in need of maintenance; the majority of these streets will not qualify for any type of grant or outside financial assistance. The City's goal is to resurface multiple residential blocks each year. With the assistance of the pavement rating system, staff has been able to identify the area of the City in highest need of maintenance for 2019. After identifying the area in highest need, staff then identified the roadways having a PCI of between 69-25 within the area. These streets with a PCI of 69-25 within the "west mountain view" area make up the 2019 residential paving project. Using the MRSC Small Works Roster, an Invitation to Bid (ITB) was distributed on July 23, 2019. The ITB specified a group of road sections as Schedule A, and smaller groups of road sections as Additive 1, Additive 2, and Additive 3. This allowed the City flexibility to award the base bid, Schedule A, and additional road sections, "Additives" depending on the amounts of the bids. The bids were opened August 8, 2019. Seven responsive bids were received with Central Paving, LLC having the low, responsible bid of $194,797.00 for Schedule A and all three additives.

	City Manager

DESCRIPTION OF THE PROGRAM/PROJECT AND BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

In years past city staff has completed the required bidding process to acquire a contractor for the necessary long-line striping on City streets. To ease staff time dedicated to this long process, public works is proposing to enter into a five-year agreement with Washington State for long-line striping on an annual basis.

A proposed agreement is attached for review and consideration.

ANALYSIS/OPTIONS/ALTERNATIVES:

Council has the option to not enter into the agreement with Washington State and require staff to complete the bidding process. – Staff does not recommend this option as this would further delay the annual striping activity since all striping contractors are currently booked through the fall and not able to stripe our streets until early 2020.

BUDGET/FISCAL INFORMATION:

Striping of City streets has already been approved through the 2019 budget, as it is every year.

PUBLIC INFORMATION REQUIREMENTS:

Information can be obtained through the Public Works Department.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION/MOTION:

Staff recommends, "I move to approve the striping of City streets to be completed by WSDOT by authorizing the Mayor to sign the Maintenance Agreement with Washington State".
